Perform Investigation	Gage, Michael		2/28/02	4	On 02-28-2002 Steve Mathis (Southern Water Enforcement), Jim Manuel (Emergency Response), Frank Gagliano (Emergency Response) and I (Michael Gage) conducted a joint investigation of this incident. Initially we toured the Superior Barrel and Drum Company facility and then met with the owner (Tom Toy). According to Mr. Toy his facility provides cleaning of drums using live steam and sodium hydroxide. The wastewater from this cleaning is shipped as a non-hazardous waste using Miller Environmental. The majority of the cleaned drums are shipped to Florida where they are 'burned out' and then used for storage of frozen citrus concentrates (a liner is placed in the drum). During our tour of facility we did not notice any significant spillage other than a small area of fiberglass of resin. After completing our site tour we proceeded to the adjoining property operated by Industrial Drum. We did notice any spillages at this location probably because most drums are stored onsite in trailers. The inspections of both facilities did not indicate any apparent hazardous waste violations.
